

Mayor Don Atchison and city councillors seeking re-election have a lot to answer for on River Landing. When council began making decisions in late 2003 on the south downtown, the public was not told how much the project would cost eventually. It wasn't until November 2004 that city administration tabled its first River Landing capital budget.

Continue reading this article on the Saskatoon StarPhoenix website